

HT BSVS179 / HT ÉRTÉ501 THE CONDITIONS OF TEAMWORK ACCORDING TO MANAGEMENT THINKERS AND THE NEW TESTAMENT

Instructor's Name: Dr. János Tomka

Instructor's Email Address: tomka.janos@kre.hu

Time and Venue of Course:

Tuesday 16:45-18:15 KRE HTK (Ráday utca 28), room 116

Credit Point Value: 4	Number of Lessons per Week: 1 double	Type of Course: Seminar <input checked="" type="checkbox"/> Lecture <input type="checkbox"/>	Method of Evaluation: Oral Examination <input type="checkbox"/> In-Class Group Presentation <input checked="" type="checkbox"/> Other <input type="checkbox"/>
---------------------------------	--	---	--

Course Description:

The New Testament already 2000 years ago clearly had written about the difficulties and fundamental requirements of the teamwork. In spite of this and for all the attention that the concept has received over the years, teamwork is as elusive as it has ever been within most organizations. In this seminar with help of messages from the New Testament and statements of leadership experts we would like to face up to the all-too-human behavioral tendencies of corrupt teams and breed dysfunctional politics within them.

Five essential factors are required to the good teamwork: vulnerability-based trust, healthy conflicts, true commitment, mutual accountability and attention to results. To practice these we need three underlying virtues: humility, enthusiasm and good knowledge of human beings...

Bibliography:

- Em Griffin: Getting Together, InterVarsity Press, 1982, Downers Gove
- Patrick Lencioni: The five dysfunctions of a team; Jossey-Bass, 2002, San Francisco
- Patrick Lencioni: The ideal team player; Jossey-Bass; 2016, New Jersey